SCHOOL REPORT.

It is very gratifying to the school board to be able to report to the citizens of the town that our schools have been quite successful during the entire year. The school board considered well the conditions upon which we might expect and look for the greatest progress and advancement possible, and made the necessary arrangements for such results. Every teacher has been selected and assigned to their position in the different schools because we considered them the best fitted for that particular school. Personal friendship has been ignored, as well as the custom of preceding years. Not even smiles or hard thoughts have swerved us in the least from the duties which we were expected to discharge. The one purpose of the school board has been to advance and educate all children to the greatest extent in our power, consequently we selected teachers of experience, and have paid the best of wages.

The roll of honor will speak for itself, and we are pleased to have had so many of our scholars aspire to this, the highest position attainable in deportment. We build our hopes in the future more directly upon this class of scholars, as they, by their own acts and efforts, have been enabled to reach this high and respected position.

The decrease in the number of scholars demands our thought. Five schools have been in operation during the year; with four and five scholars in each, and under such circumstances we may expect soon more vacant school houses. The question of continuing these small schools will soon have to be met, as the cost and expense of maintaining them will be unsatisfactory. We do not need to build more school houses, as we have more than we can use. The question to be considered will be, shall we keep them in repair or let them fall into ruins?

We have been able to give twenty-five weeks of school to nearly all, which would average three terms of eight weeks each, and without raising additional school money. We think the terms may be increased to three of nine weeks for the ensuing year.

Our legislature is taking a deep interest in our system of education as applied to our common schools, which can only result in their being constantly and permanently improved if we will but adopt cheerfully the laws and measures which are enacted and recommended by it. The increase of school money was a measure which would have had to have been met by a direct tax upon the property of many towns in the state by reason of the depreciation of value in real estate, and the wisdom of our legislature is seen in a new enactment of law. The town system of providing school books for every scholar is another measure which produces the best of results. It provides text books at a much less expense than could possibly be under the former system, besides giving a greater uniformity in classifying scholars, and although opposed somewhat at first, the results are so apparent to all that it is considered as the best system generally. Other improvements will be made and other new laws will be enacted which will result only in the advancement and higher elevation of our schools.

We think it will be of infinitely more value to our scholars as well as to ourselves to continue to look for the highest and most efficient teachers rather than attempt to increase the length of the terms under existing circumstances. We are aware that we are advocating sentiments directly in opposition to recommendations of some of the former boards of our town, and we do so because they seem to us reasonable and consistent.

The question of raising money by taxation for school purposes of any nature is one upon which our people are quite sensitive, and should be approached with much caution. We cannot afford to throw away even a single dollar for any purpose other than the legitimate one for which it was designed, and as such will be conducive to the best interests and highest welfare of every citizen within our town.

It is demanded of us that our interest be a broad and a magnanimous one, so much so that we may be enabled to put aside every personal and self interest, and place every child, whosoever he may be, within the limits of our town, under the care and instruction of efficient teachers, for the child of today may be the person upon whom our future will be established and maintained.

We do not propose to address our citizens upon those educational topics which often find a place in school reports and are often impracticable and sometimes inconsistent, and founded only upon theory; but we rather say things that are practical and speak them as the practical thoughts of practical men, asking your candid and deliberate consideration to all of them. We submit this report to you, being fully aware that it is a departure from those usually made. We can afford to do this, as the board were elected under such circumstances as required the most rigid economy in their every effort for managing our schools.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE W. ROWELL,
CHARLES E. SANBORN,
HENRY J. OSGOOD,

Board of Education.
